Next Quarter in the ADULT BIBLE COURSE

The December lessons on the Psalms conclude the first quarter of study in the fifth year of the Adult Bible Course, "Special Studies in the Bible."

The outline for the coming year includes a number of books and periods in Hebrew history which have been dealt with briefly and incompletely in the previous studies in the Adult Bible Course. In addition to the unit on "Old Testament Devotional Material" just completed, this year's study will include the following units: "Deuteronomy," "Job," "The Exile," "Stories in the Bible," "Matthew," "The Letter of Paul to the Romans," "The Gospel According to John," and "Revelation."

In contrast with the Book of Psalms with which most people are somewhat familiar, and which was studied during the fall quarter, the January lessons will deal with the Book of Deuteronomy with which few people are familiar. The students will be guided in a study of the humaneness and fairness that characterize the laws of the Hebrews. The class will have an opportunity to gain an appreciation of the beauty of language and harmony of expression in the Deuteronomic writings. The occasion of the writing, its form, and its teaching will be dealt with under the following lesson titles: "The Discovery of Deuteronomy," "Exploring the Code," "The Great Exhortations," and "The Heritage of Deuteronomy."

One of the most difficult personal religious problems of all time has been that of suffering. The Book of Job, to be studied in February, gives a discussion of this problem. The study will be introduced with a lesson on the book as one of the poetic masterpieces in the literature of mankind. Following that will be the discussion on human suffering and on optimism and pessimism in the book. "God's Justice and Love" will be the climax of this study of Job.

The next unit, "The Exile," is planned for nine sessions—March and April. It deals with a period in the history of the Hebrew people rather than with just one book of the Bible. This period of the Babylonian captivity is one of the most significant in the history of religion. The experiences of the Exile and their effect on the religion of the Hebrews is recorded in several of the prophetic books as well as in historical books of the Old Testament.

During the month of March, the lessons will consider some of the factors which led to the downfall of Israel, the extraordinary difficulties which faced those among the exiles who set themselves to preserve the religion of Jehovah, the character of these exiles, and Ezekiel as their leader.

The pupils' materials for this course are published in current issues of Adult Student.

These studies of the Bible in Adult Student and in ADULT TEACHER have been prepared by outstanding Old Testament scholars: Lindsay B. Longacre and W. A. Smart (Deuteronomy), Robert H. Pfeiffer and W. J. Scarborough (Job), William G. Chanter and John Frederick Olson ("The Exile"). The helps for the teacher were written by Bond Fleming (Deuteronomy and Job) and James E. Ward ("The Exile").

This study of the Exile will continue through April.
